This was the second trial of this case. On the first trial the jury fixed his punishment at nine years, but the judge, on motion, set the verdict aside and awarded a new trial. On Saturday a writ of habeas corpus in he case of the Commonwealth vs. James Reynolds was tried before Judge McLaughlin in this city. The prisoner, in charge of the sheriff of Alleghany county, accompanied by his counsel, General William Skeen, and the Commonwealth's attorney, Robert L. Parrish, Esq., of Covington. The prisoner is charged with the killing of one George Callaghan, on the 19th of January, in the viminity of Covington. The object of the writ was to obtain bail on the ground of a slight minimization of guilt. The case, as made out by the Commonwealth, rests chiefly upon eircumstantial evidence. It is held that Reynolds had a groupe against Callaghan for information be had given about illicit distilling, and for which Reynolds is now under indictment in the United States Court at Harrisonburg; that he was, about the time the murder was committed, seen going in the direction of the place where the murdered man was shortly afterwards found.

It is in proof that the deceased was very much intoxicated, and one theory of the defence is that he in a d-unken fit fell forward and killed himself. It is also proposed to prove an alibi, and that there is as much ground for suspecting seme other persons who were seen with the deceased a short.

The House Committee on War Claims met to-day, when Judge Lawrence, the chairman, submitted a report relative to the class of claims which should and which should not be allowed. The committee have not yet considered their report, which is very important as establishing a principle for Concress in the settlement of war claims.

The Howard court of inquiry to-day examined General Meigs, of the court, Acting Commissary-General Shiras, and Adjutant-General Townsend, with regard to the laws and regulations concerning the disbursements of public moneys, and particularly with reference to such laws and regulations since the time that General Howard became responsible for funds belonging to the Government.

The United States steamer Shawmut left for Key West to-day. Within the last three months about six hundred employes have been discharged from the navy-yard here. Some of those retained are working on reduced time. Four hundred hands were discharged from the Norfolk navy-yard Saturday. Monev will not be available for full resumption of work until the first of July.

There will be tive financial speeches, and at least seven on Mr. Carpenter's bill. No vote upon its reference is expected during March. The condition of Judge Dent is un-
